HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS AND

Hoofland's German Tonic.

The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS

Is composed of the pure Juices (or, as they are medically termed, Extracts,) of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,

Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.

Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Those who have no objection to the combination of the bitters, as stated, will use

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.

They are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues, the choice between the two being a mere matter of taste, the Tonic being the most palatable.

The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc., is very apt to have its functions deranged. The liver, sympathizing as closely as it does with the stomach, then becomes affected, the result of which is that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases:

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fulness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin, and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.

The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his case, purchasing only that which he is assured from his investigations and inquiries possesses true merit, is skillfully compounded, is free from injurious ingredients, and has established for itself a reputation for the cure of these diseases. In this connection we would submit those well known remedies—

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS AND HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,

Prepared by Dr. C. M. JACKSON, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Twenty-two years since they were first introduced into this country from Germany, during which time they have undoubtedly performed more cures, and benefited suffering humanity to a greater extent, than any other remedies known to the public.

These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.

DEBILITY,

Resulting from any Cause whatever; PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, &c.

There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite is strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.

PERSONS ADVANCED IN LIFE,

And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this BITTERS, or the TONIC, an elixir that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and vigor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.

NOTICE.

It is a well established fact; that fully one half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health, or, to use their own expressions, feel well. They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite.

To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN,

Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.

Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.

TESTIMONIALS.

Philadelphia, March 18, 1767.

"I find 'Hoofland's German Bitters' is a good tonic, useful in diseases and of great benefit in want of nervous action when in the system.

Yours, truly, GEO. W. WOODWARD."

HON. JAMES THOMPSON, Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, April 25, 1866.

"I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect, JAMES THOMPSON."

FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D.,

Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir: I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear conviction and particularly in proof in various instances in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual custom, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.

FROM REV. E. D. FENDALL,

Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.

I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver.

Yours truly, E. D. FENDALL.

WIN AND WEAR.

There's no novel road to greatness,
Men must ever climb to fame;
All the wealth to miser's coffers
Wouldn't buy a deathless name.
Is a noble goal before you?
Would you great achievements dare?
Brother, then be up and doing—
Brother! you must "Win and Wear."

Toil and labor—never stooping
Till you make the prize your own,
For, you know, 'tis "constant dropping
Wears away the hardest stone."
Never slack sublime endeavor,
Nor 'mid cheerless toil despair;
If you'd rise above your fellows,
Brother! you must "Win and Wear."

'Tis the lesson Nature teaches
All throughout her wide domain;
And the text from which she preaches
Is "that labor leads to gain."
Moral worth, and honest merit—
Brighter crowns than monarchs bear,
These you never can inherit—
Brother! these you "Win to Wear."

DETECTIVES ON THE PLAINS.

[Dakota Correspondence of the Hudson Star.]

The most extraordinary skill that is exhibited in this part of the country, either by the white man or red native, is in the practice of trailing. Here it may be accounted an art as much as music, painting or sculpture is in the East. The Indian or trapper that is a shrewd trailer, is a man of close observation, quick perception and prompt action. As he goes along, nothing escapes his observation, and what he sees and hears he accounts for immediately. Often not another step is taken until a mystery, that may present itself in this line is fairly solved. The Indian trailer will stand still for hours in succession, to account for certain traces or effects in tracks, and sometimes give to the matter unremitting attention for days and weeks.

The trailer is not a graceful man. He carries his head much inclined, his eye is quick and restless, always on the watch, and he is practising his art unconsciously, hardly ever crossing the track of man or animal without seeing it. When he enters a house, he brings the habits he contracted in the practice of his art with him. I know a trailer as soon as he enters my room. He comes in through the door softly, and with an air of exceeding caution. Before he is fairly in, or at least has sat down, he has taken note of every article and person though there may be a dozen vacant chairs in the room. He is not used to chairs, and, like the Indian, prefers a more humble seat. When I was employed by General Harney last summer to take charge temporarily of the Indians that were gathered here to form a new reservation, one day a guide and trailer came into the General's headquarters. I told him to be seated. He sat down on the floor, bracing his back against the wall. The General saw this, and in vexation cried out. "My God, why don't you take a chair, when there are plenty here not occupied?" The man arose and seated himself in a chair, but in so awkward and uncomfortable a manner that he looked as if he might slip from it at any moment. But when this uncouth person came to transact his business with the General, he turned out to be a man of no ordinary abilities. His description of a route he took as guide and trailer for the Ogallalas, in bringing them from the Platte to this place, was minute and, to me, exceedingly interesting. Every war party that for the season had crossed his trail, he described with minuteness as to their number, the kind of arms they had, and stated the tribes they belonged to In these strange revelations that he made there was neither imposition nor supposition, for he gave satisfactory reasons for every assertion he made.

I have rode several hundred miles with an experienced guide and trailer, Hack, whom I interrogogated upon many points in the practice of this art. Nearly all tracks I saw, either old or new, as a novice in the art I questioned him about. In going to Noibara river, we crossed the track of an Indian pony. My guide followed the track a few miles, and then said, "It is the track of a stray black horse, with a long bush tail, nearly starved to death, has a split hoof on the left forefoot, and goes very lame, and he passed here early this morning." Astonished and incredulous, I asked him the reasons for knowing these particulars by the tracks of the animal, when he replied: "It was a stray horse, because it did not go in a direct line; his tail was long, for he dragged it over the snow; in brushing against a bush he left some of his hair, which shows its color. He was very hungry, for, in going along, he had nipped at those high, dry weeds which horses seldom eat. The fissure of the left fore foot left, also its track, and the depth of the indentation shows the degree of his lameness; and his tracks show he was here this morning when the snow was hard with frost."

At another place we came across an Indian track, and he said, "It is an old Yankton, who came across the Missouri last evening to look at his traps. In coming over he carried in his right hand a trap, and in his left a lasso, to catch a pony which he had lost. He returned without finding the horse, but had caught in the trap he had out a prairie wolf, which he carried home on his back, and a bundle of kinnikinick wood in his right hand." Then he gave his reasons, "I know he is old by the impression his gait has made, and Yankton by that of his moccasin. He is from the other side of the river, as there are no Yanktons on this side. The trap he carried struck the snow now and then, and in the same manner as when he came, shows that he did not find his pony. A drop of blood in the centre of his tracks shows that he carried the wolf on his back, and the bundle of kinnikinick wood he used for a staff for support, and catching a wolf shows that he had traps out." "But," I asked, "how do you know it is a wolf, why not a fox, or a coyotte, or even a deer? Said he, "if it had been a fox, or coyotte, or any other small game he would have slipped the head of the animal in his waist belt, and so carried it by his side, and not on his shoulder. Deer are not caught by traps, but if it had been a deer, he would not have crossed this high hill, but would have gone back by way of the ravine, and the load would have made his steps still more tottering."

Another Indian track we saw twenty miles west of this he put his serious construction upon. "He is an upper Indian—a prowling horse thief—carried a double shot gun, and is a rascal that killed some white man lately, and passed here one week ago; for" said he, "a lone Indian in these parts is on mischief, and generally on the lookout for horses. He had on the shoes of a white man whom he had in all probability killed, but his steps are those of an Indian. Going through the ravine the end of his gun bit into the deep snow. A week ago we had a very warm day, and the snow being soft he had made these tracks; ever since it has been intensely cold weather, which makes very shallow tracks." I suggested that perhaps he bought those shoes. "Indians don't buy shoes, and if they did they would not buy them as large as these were, for Indians have very small feet."

The most noted trailer of this country was Paul Daloria, a half breed, who died under my hands, of Indian consumption, last summer. I have spoken of him in a former letter. At one time I rode with him, and trailing was naturally the subject of our conversation. I begged to trail with him an old track over the prairies, in order to learn its history. I had hardly made the proposition when he drew up his horse, which was at a ravine, and said, "Well, here is an old elk track. Let us get off our horses and follow it." We followed it up but a few rods, when he said it was exactly a month old, and made at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. This he knew, as then we had our last rain, and at the hour named the ground was softer than at any other time. The track before us was theirs made. He broke up here and there clusters of grass that lay in the path of the track, and showed me the dry ends of some, the stumps of others, and by numerous other similar items accounted for many circumstances that astonished me. We followed the trail over a mile. Now and then we saw that a wolf, a fox, and other animals had practiced their trailing instincts on the elk's tracks. Here and there he would show me where a snake, a rat, a prairie dog had crossed the track. Nothing had followed or crossed the track that the quick eye of Daloria did not detect. He gave an account of the habits of all the animals that had left their footprints on the track, also of the state of the weather since the elk passed, and the effect of sunshine, winds, aridity, and storms, and other influences that had a bearing on these tracks.

The old man, like all trailers, was reticent, but on this occasion, seeing I was interested, became especially communicative. DR. RACHENBERG.

TOO MUCH MARRYING.—"The Liberal Christian" has an article on the above subject, from which we take the following: "It is not in the facility with which people get divorced, but in the facility with which they get married that the mischief inheres. It is not the unmarrying but the marrying—the marrying without proper consideration, marrying from wrong motives, with false views and unfounded expectations, marrying without knowing who or what—that causes all the disturbance. And there is altogether too much of such marrying. Marriage is a thing of quality and degree. A marriage of the blood is usually a short-lived affair, while a marriage of the brain or of the heart is life-long. When man and woman marry all over and clean through, every faculty and sentiment of each finding its complement and counterpart in the other, separation is impossible. But when they are only half married, when only a third part of them is married, when they are married only in their instincts or their imaginations, or their fortunes, the unmarried part of them is very apt to get uneasy and rebel, and they find a Bedlam where they look for Elysium.

* * * * * * *

There is altogether too much urging, and coaxing, and alluring young people into the most important and sacred of all human relations, before they are prepared for its responsibilities or moved to assume its burdens, and by those who ought to know better and act with more consideration. We make too much of marrying and being married, until it is thought by many people somewhat of a disgrace for a woman to pass through life alone; when, in fact, the life of many a single woman is poetry, romance, rapture even, in comparison with many a wife."

☞ A countryman who had never paid more than twenty-five cents to see an exhibition, went to view the "Forty Thieves." The ticket seller charged him seventy-five cents, for a ticket. Passing the pasteboard back, he quietly remarked: "Keep it, mister, I don't want to see the other thirty-nine," and out he marched.

[Written for the Globe.]

The Moral Telescope.

When we first turned our glass toward void and empty space, nonentity and darkness prevailed there, but soon we saw Satan with his rebel hosts driven from the battlements of heaven to wander in dark and empty space, to seek by sight or sound some object upon which to revenge his fall, and vex his God. Presently we see our world, first in crude, chaotic form. We saw this dark and heterogeneous mass of matter, by the laws of chemical affinity and gravitation, come into order, the vegetable kingdom spread over the surface in gorgeous beauty. We saw the animal kingdom clothed in strength pride and beauty; we saw the progenitors of our race clothed in heavenly beauty and innocence, the very image of their creator, and lords of creation. The adversary saw, too, the objects of envy, hatred and revenge; he emitted the deadly poison. The moral virus tainted the soul of man. He fell and became subject to death—spiritual, temporal and eternal. We looked again, and saw that from a corrupted fountain-head the whole race descending from them by ordinary generation, were corrupted. Death, cruel, fratricidal death, broke in upon the family circle, and introduced weeping and lamentation where once innocence, joy and gladness prevailed. And as we turn our glass downward on the pathway of history, aided by the heavenly lamp hung out by the prince of peace, (reason,) we find that the bitter upas planted in Paradise by the adversary, had sent its fibrous poison through every human vein, until the moral leprosy had withered up nearly the last vestige of goodness in the human heart, and until "God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually." The God of love resolved to exterminate such a race of gigantic rebels from the face of the earth, with the exception of one family, and accordingly all those elements conducive to the happiness of unfallen man, were used in the hands of an angry God for his destruction. The windows of heaven were opened and poured out rain in torrents; the earth trembled and sank under such a load of sin, till sea met sea and storm met storm, till the whole race except Noah and his family were whelmed in awful destruction.

You turn your glass further downward upon the pathway of history and you find the human record a history of carnage and death; nation at war with nation, and kingdom against kingdom, empires rising through blood over the ruins of their predecessors, in order to play tyrant in their turn, and drench the earth in human blood.—Where is Nineveh? Where is Babylon? Where are the doomed cities of the plain? Where is the glory of Jerusalem, or the power of Rome, once the mistress of the world, now a by-word and disgrace? All are dead or dying—monuments of the just vengeance of an offended God, toward cruel rebels against his righteous government. How often have we looked in sorrow over the ravages of sin, and wept over the moral desolation of our earth, once, with all the works of God, "pronounced very good;" but now, alas, "the whole head is sick, the whole heart is faint. From the sole of the foot even unto the head, there is no soundness in it but wounds and bruises, and putrefying sores; they have not been closed, neither bound up, neither mollified with ointment." The carnal mind is enmity against God, not subject to the law of God, neither can be: "So that by the deeds of the law no flesh living can be justified." Such was the moral condition of our earth that if an inhabitant of another and an unfallen world, ignorant of our history, had been permitted to visit our planet, to witness the sin and sorrow, with the dark and gloomy degradation and suffering of such a fallen race, he might have concluded that our world was not a creation of his benevolent God, but rather the work of some malignant fiend, thrown into space to wander amongst the works of God, as a mockery of Divine benevolence, or perhaps permitted to revolve in the sight of unfallen worlds as a warning to their inhabitants to avoid such a rebellion as would bring them into such a state of sin and misery.

But after all, ours is not a forsaken world. You know that when stooping under a load of sorrow over the devastations of sin, and weeping over our moral desolation, we were moved by some moral impulse to look again, and turning our glass once more upon the pathway of human history we discovered that ours was not a forsaken world, and that God had at suitable intervals appointed symbols and emblems, which harmoniously, though dimly, prefigured some great future relief, and that there were prophets raised up from time to time, rising early and teaching the people. Here you find one weeping over the sins and desolation of Zion and exhorting the people to repent. There you find another, standing high above earthly vanities, looking down into the distant future and singing joyfully of the coming Saviour, and others tuning their harps for songs of joy as though He had already come. One there was, who, sold to sin and Satan, was hired for great reward to curse the armies of the living God; but here arose in a human soul that remarkable conflict between the Prince of darkness and the Prince of peace, in which the latter prevailed—an evidence of His final victory. Neither would the Lord permit Balaam to curse Israel from the top of Pisgah or Peor, but in spite of the wicked prophet's desire to secure great wealth in the service of sin, Satan was foiled in his soul, and found himself in the grasp of Jehovah, and obliged to bear through his own instrument the voice of God in that inimitable parable, beaming with light, beauty and grandeur, which remains fresh as the morning light, though thousands of years have passed away, and no literature has dimmed it in comparison; and also to listen to that glorious prophecy in which is foretold the destruction of his kingdom and the victory of fallen humanity, when his own prophet was forced to say: "I shall see him, but not now; I shall behold him, but not nigh: then shall come a star out of Jacob and a scepter out of Israel," "out of Jacob shall come he that shall have dominion and shall destroy him that remaineth of the city."

Here we saw the only genuine history of our race, interspersed with streams of eloquence which for grandeur, beauty and thrilling pathos could only flow from the fountain-head of inspiration, and defy human imitation—with the most fascinating biography—with poetry the most sublime and beautiful ever written, and a system of morals which beggars in the comparison all the efforts of the sages and philosophers of antiquity. All this we see converging remotely or clearly to some great future event, with a powerful tendency to enlighten the mind, improve the heart, and work in the soul those high anticipations of the coming one, predestined to "bear our griefs and carry our sorrows," "make an end of transgression and sin," and give his people a perfect triumph over their malignant adversary.

We turned our telescope toward Bethlehem, and there was the babe, the God incarnate, who was the Creator of all worlds, clothed in all the habiliments of poverty. The universe was astonished. A star left its heavenly orbit to guide the eastern magii to the place where the babe lay, and looked down upon the wonderful visitor. Angels visited earth and sang to lonely shepherds in the night season the thrilling song of anticipated triumph, saying, "Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people; for unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ, the Lord." Then was the realization of that ancient prophecy made over seven hundred years before, saying, "Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulders; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace." Then was that other prediction, made over a thousand years before, fulfilled—"The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers took counsel together, against the Lord, and against his anointed"—for they desired to murder the babe. HOPE.

Wheeling One's Self.

Going to dinner the other day, says an exchange, we saw a little fellow, about two years old, sitting in a wheelbarrow, and trying to wheel himself. It struck us that many people in this world are often caught in the same act, and we shall always think hereafter: When we see a business man trusting everything to his clerks, and continually seeking his house, yet expecting to get along—he's sitting in a wheelbarrow, and trying to wheel himself. When we see a professional man better acquainted with everything else than his profession, always starting some new scheme, and never attending to his calling, his wardrobe and credit will soon designate him as sitting in a wheelbarrow, and trying to wheel himself. When we see a farmer with an over-abundance of "hired help," trusting to their management, his fence down, implements out of repair, and land suffering for want of proper tillage—too proud, or too lazy, to take off his coat and go to work—he's sitting in a wheelbarrow, and trying to wheel himself. When we see a man busily engaged in circulating scandal concerning his neighbor, we infer he is pretty deep in the mud, and is sitting in a wheelbarrow, and trying to wheel himself.

GIVE YOUR CHILD A LOCAL PAPER.—A child beginning to read becomes delighted with a newspaper, because he reads the names of persons and things which are very familiar, and will make progress accordingly. A newspaper in one year is worth a quarter's schooling to a child, and every father must consider that substantial information is connected with advertisement. The mother of a family, being one of the heads and having a more immediate charge of children, should herself be instructed. A mind occupied becomes fortified against the ills of life and is braced against any emergency. Children, amused by reading or studying, are of course more considerate and more easily governed. How many parents who have not spent twenty dollars for books for their families would have given hundreds to reclaim a son or daughter who had ignorantly or thoughtlessly fallen into temptation. —Exchange.

☞ Each ant in an ant hill knows his companions. Mr. Darwin several times carried ants from one hill to another, inhabited apparently by tens of thousands of ants; but the strangers were invariably detected and killed. Thinking that there might be a family odor, by which which they were recognized, he put some ants from a large nest into a bottle strongly perfumed with assafœtida, and restored them after twenty-four hours. At first they were threatened by their companions, but soon recognized, and allowed to pass.

FOR GOVERNOR,

Hon. DAN'L. J. MORRELL,

OF CAMBRIA COUNTY.

[Subject to the decision of the Republican State Convention.]

To Our Friends and Patrons.

Until we give notice to the contrary, we will issue to all paying us money on subscription to Globe, advertising, job work and old store bills, chance checks for presents in our Enterprise. Now is the time to subscribe, advertise, have your bills, etc, printed, and for all indebted to us to pay up.

☞The Senate adjourned sine die at 1:24 o'clock on Friday morning last. A number of the President's appointments were rejected, and a few pending when the Senate adjourned.

☞Col. Forney, Gov. Curtin, Gen. Kane and a number of other prominent Pennsylvanians are on a tour of general inspection through the Southern States.

☞Senator Scott delivered an address on the occasion of the fifty-first anniversary of the Sunday School of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, at Washington City, on the 19th inst.

☞The Old and New School Presbyterian Churches are endeavoring to effect a reunion of the two Churches. The question is being discussed pro and con pretty strongly throughout the country, with hopes of success.

☞Coffee-pot Wallace is looming up as a Democratic candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination. Hancock declines and Cass is ahead as far as heard from. Go in, gentlemen, the more the merrier, it is an empty honor anyhow.

☞Great floods and terrific hurricanes have occurred in the central and western portions of New York, and in Vermont, Massachusetts and States in the West. Dwellings, mills, dams, bridges and locks have been swept away in various localities, making up a very heavy aggregate of loss.

☞Accounts which go to prove the safety of David Livingstone, the celebrated African traveler, respecting whose fate so much uncertainty has prevailed recently, have been secured in London. It is reported that he left Zauribar, Eastern Africa, in January last for England.

☞Grant has succeeded in seducing the Quakers into accepting office under him. They are to take charge of the Indians and teach them civilization, as well as how to behave themselves in a becoming manner. It is well, for Mr. Lo has been badly treated and has treated us badly in return.

☞Chief Justice Chase has decided in the Butler-Kimberly case that a member of Congress is not exempt from arrest in a civil suit. In his opinion members are only exempt from forcible detention looking to imprisonment. A much wider interpretation has hitherto been generally given to this constitutional guarantee.

☞Simon Cameron said in the Senate of the United States that in his opinion, Gov. Curtin was not the choice of the Republican party of Pennsylvania, for the mission to Russia. If he was not, who was, pray? Was it the Senator himself? On another occasion, Simon stigmatized a friend of Curtin's whose name was before the Senate on confirmation as a "Constitutional druukard." Let us have peace!

☞Political Doctors will differ. The Journal & American, Republican, speaking of Capt. B. X. Blair's appointment as Post Master for this place, says:

"The appointment, as might reasonably be supposed, is regarded by our citizens generally as one of the most unpopular that could have been made."

The Monitor, Democratic, says:

"We are pleased to note the fact that the appointment gives general satisfaction."

☞Seven women two of whom were colored, presented themselves to the Board of Registry of Washington the other day, and requested that their names be placed on the list of qualified voters now being prepared. They also presented the following paper, containing their signatures:

To the Judges of Election of the City of Washington: The undersigned residents of the First Ward, request that our names be placed on the list of qualified voters, which you are engaged in preparing. We know that it is unusual for those of our sex to make such a request; we do so because we believe ourselves entitled to the franchise. We are ready to make oath that we are in other respects qualified. We do not know that any law expressly forbids you to comply with our request. If such there be, we hereby solemnly protest against an exclusion from the highest privilege of American citizenship, to which our consent has never been asked.

The Board received the paper, and promised to give it due consideration. Their appearance attracted considerable attention, but they declared that they did not experience any remarkable inconvenience, and were not subjected to any disagreeable remarks.

"The Dear People."

How often have we heard this phrase from the lips of politicians. During times of political excitement it is as common among them as the shaking of hands and the "How d'ye do?" of every day life. Indeed, so common is it that we have been led to wonder whether any amount of earnestness can be placed upon its utterance; whether the expression is merely the result of custom or of heartfelt significance. We are inclined to think that much of it is buncombe; for the actions of many men in position belie their assertions when seeking that position. We do not say this by way of reflecting upon the actions of any man in position, but merely give it as our opinion as being one of the lesser evils of society, with which we are observant. It is an expression, all will admit, that too many men make use of for effect; and it is one too which, like every other evil, will work out its own result, and thus make itself apparent. A man found guilty in the eyes of the people of betraying their interests, as a body, which he professed, while seeking their suffrages, he would to the best of his ability maintain, will sooner or later meet with just retribution at their hands.

The dear people, as they are called, will endure much; they suffer long, and are not as ready as some people suppose, to treat a man unjustly. There is a feeling of common sympathy implanted in their breasts that will extend itself to every human being; and it is only when their claims are repeatedly ignored and their wants defiantly overlooked, that they will turn their faces against him who forsakes them. We have seen and heard of men who have kept long in position that have defied public opinion, but this was the result of want of proper enlightenment in regard to their actions. A man of influence can do much to injure the reputation of a fellow man who is exalted to position, for slander works great mischief in all communities; but the record of an honest man will often controvert the misrepresentations of those who try to injure him.

We believe in the people, and where is the man who does not. They are not to be treated with contempt nor indifference. The individual who attempts to get along without the aid and sympathy of the people has a wretched pilgrimage. He is looked upon as sordid and selfish—as one who cares nothing for the progress and elevation of his fellow-man, and who therefore is not worthy a place in the hearts of his countrymen. It is to point out the hypocrisy of the human heart that we thus refer to this subject; and it is to keep ever before the minds of persons who have been honored with positions by the "dear people," that we indite this article, hoping that they will not forget their professions of faith in them, nor fancy themselves secure, for they are in a slippery place, and their deeds are open to the criticism of a critical public as well as a "dear people." "Love thy neighbor as thyself" is an injunction they well should heed.

Election of County Superintendents.

For the information of School Directors and others, we give the following extract, relating to the eligibility of persons to the office of County Superintendent. This act was approved on the 9th day of April 1867.

SEC. 13. That no person shall hereafter be eligible to the office of county, city, or borough Superintendent, in any county of this Commonwealth, who does not possess a diploma from a college, legally empowered to grant literary degrees, a diploma, or State certificate, issued, according to law, by the authorities of a State Normal School, a professional certificate from a county, city, or borough, Superintendent of good standing, issued at least one year prior to the election, or a certificate of competency from the State Superintendent of common Schools, nor shall such person be eligible, unless he has a sound moral character, and has had successful experience in teaching, within three years of the time of his election. * * * * *

This is all of the act relating to the eligibility of persons to the office. A proviso is given relative to the evidence of eligibilty to the Superintendent of Common Schools, &c, &c.

THE PROSPECTS OF A WAR IN EUROPE.—It is evident to every thoughtful reader that a terrific conflict of arms in Europe is inevitable at almost any moment. All Europe is preparing for war, while the only talk is of peace.—The crowned heads are jealous of each other, as well as fearful of the power the others wield. Combinations are being formed between France, Italy and Austria, against Prussia and of course the cunning and ambitious Napoleon is at the head. The success of Prussia, in her war with Austria has aroused the fear and the ire of Napoleon and he seeks to humble her, but that yet remains to be accomplished, and whether it will not endanger his own Empire, is a question that might very properly be considered England has enough to do to take care of her own affairs without meddling with others. She will not fight unless in self-defence. The clouds of war are rapidly gathering over Europe and may burst out at any day.

The Covington (Ind.) "Free Press" tells of a man at that place, who is a candidate for postmaster, going into the churchyard to copy names from the tomb stones to go on his petition.

☞The following act, allowing "parties in interest to be witnesses," having passed both houses of the Legislature, and been approved by the Governor, is now a law of Pennsylvania:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That no interest nor policy of law shall exclude a party or person from being a witness in any civil proceeding; provided, this act shall not alter the law as now declared and practised in the courts of this Commonwealth, so as to allow husband and wife to testify against each other, nor counsel to testify to the confidential communication of his client; and this act shall not apply to actions by or against executors, administrators, or guardians, nor where the assignor of the thing or contract in action may be dead, excepting in issues and inquiries devisavit vel non and others respecting the right of such deceased owner, between parties claiming such right by devolution on the death of such owner.

SEC. 2. That a party to the record of any civil proceeding in law or equity, or a person for whose immediate benefit such proceeding is prosecuted or defended, may be examined as if under cross examination at the instance of the adverse party of any of them, and for that purpose may be compelled in the same manner and subject to the same rules for examination as any other witness to testify; but the party calling for such examination shall not be concluded thereby, but may rebut it by counter testimony.

SEC. 3. That the testimony of witnesses authorized by this act may be had by deposition or commission issued as the case may require, with such notice to the party to be examined and to the adverse party as is now or may hereafter be prescribed by the rules of the proper court touching the taking of depositions and testimony on commission.

THE LATE LEGISLATURE—The following is a summary of the action upon some of the most important bills before the State Legislature:

The general Registry law, which includes Philadelphia, passed both Houses.

The Cattle Market bill passed the Senate, but was killed in the House.

The revised tax bill, taxing coal oil and whiskey, passed the House, and was killed in the Senate.

The adulteration of Drugs bill, was killed in the House committee.

The militia law, reducing the tax from 82, to 50 cents, was defeated in the Senate.

The bill to create a State Board of public charities passed both Houses.

The bill taxing national banks and savings institutions one per cent. on their capital, and exempting them from all local taxation, passed both Houses.

Both Metropolitan Police bills were killed by the Senate, as was also the Metropolitan Telegraph bill.

The bill allowing parties to be witnesses in their own own cases has passed both Houses.

The Broad Street Omnibus bill, was killed in the Senate.

The bill authorizing the Governor to commute the death penalty, was vetoed by the Governor.

The bill abolishing capital punishment, was killed in the House.

The bill changing the rule in Shelley's case, was defeated.

The proposition to repeal all laws exempting property from taxation, was incorporated in the general Tax bill, and was of course defeated.

The bill requiring coal mines to be ventilated passed both Houses.

The cruelty to animals bill passed.

☞The American brig Mary Lowell was recently captured by a Spanish war frigate off one of the Bahama Islands, and as far as known, the capture was a gross violation of a principle generally recognized in international law. The Spanish admiralty court, having however, declared the American vessel a legal prize, for reasons not yet known to us, our Government, according to a cable dispatch, has officially demanded from the British Government an explanation in relation to the case. As the outrage of the American flag occurred within British territory, the case, in the opinion of our Government, is in the first place one between the United States and England. The English Government must explain why they did not protect the American flag. The Spanish Government has had of late more than one difficulty of the same kind with foreign Governments.

WISE TAKES A HELIOCENTRIC VIEW.—Henry A. Wise says that God "ordered and directed and forced the result of emancipation of slaves in America, knowing that there was no other way to bring it about," and that he (Wise), taking a "heliocentric view," agrees with God, and is glad slavery is gone.

☞The New York East Conference of the Methodist Church, at its late session, has taken the position that Methodists must not only refrain from whiskey, brandy, rum, gin, curoacoa and absinthe—not only from porter, ale and lager-beer—not only from mixed drinks and all sorts of bar-room concoctions, but they must abjure the use of cider and domestic wines as beverages. They must "abandon the patronage of those physicians who prescribe alcoholic mixtures freely." They must labor for prohibitory enactments against the liquor traffic.—They must consult their conscience as to the "expediency and even the rightfulness" of using intoxicating wine for sacramental purposes. They must, by precept and example, discontinue the use of the powerful narcotic tobacco. And the Conference required each clergyman under its jurisdiction to preach, at least once a year, a sermon embodying these principles.

Kansas has appropriated $1,400 to buy tobacco for the prisoners in the State Penitentiary.

THE BANKRUPT LAW.—As the law now stands no person can obtain the benefit of the act unless he is able to pay fifty per cent. of his liabilities, or unless he can obtain the consent of a majority of his creditors, who may be willing to accept whatever he, as a debtor, is able to pay out of his estate—in case he has any. If a party commits an act of bankruptcy by the stoppage of his commercial paper, or makes an assignment of his goods or property in fraud of certain creditors, other creditors claiming to be defrauded by such procedure have the power of petitioning the Court to declare such a person bankrupt within the meaning of the law.

A delegation of Odd Fellows from Juniata Lodge were in the parade of the order in the city of Philadelphia yesterday.

Hugh Roddy, of Baileysport, Perry county, was recently struck by a passing locomotive and killed. Another warning.

The people of Johnstown have gone wild over the new Court. Truly, we love darkness better than light.

Fresh coats of paint and repairs are being used to spruce up the old buildings in our borough. New houses are still going up.

Fulton county has a greeny who tried to cure a love-fit by taking a dose of strychnine. It didn't work as well as Twitchell's pill.

During the year 1868, there were 424 persons killed and 720 wounded on the railroads in Pennsylvania.

A very eulogistic obituary of a lady says: "She was married twenty-four years, and in all that time never once banged the door."

The Silver Cornet Band was out in full force last Saturday evening, and enlivened our citizens with some soul-stirring music.—Do it again, boys.

The editor of the Cambria Freeman says he hasn't the heart to publish the list of receipts for the previous week, as they are so meagre. What a pity.

The dead body of a man named Thomas Boyle was found in the Conemaugh river lately. He had been missing from home for nearly two weeks.

We would like to know where our exchanges got the information that "scarlet fever is raging in Huntingdon." We know nothing of it, and neither do our doctors.

The Masons and Odd Fellows of Hollidaysburg have bought a lot in that borough and intend erecting a three-story brick for halls and store-rooms.

There are a number of worthless and vicious dogs in our town that had better be in dog-heaven. We hope our borough fathers will enforce a dog-law that will oblige owners to muzzle their curs, and save the limbs and lives of our citizens.

The room of a temperance hotel in Williamsburg, Blair county, in which liquor had been sold for over seventy years, is now occupied by a lady who is teaching a class of young ladies the art of painting. Painted noses, adieu.

A temperance journal wants to know why it shouldn't become just as fashionable to ask a man into a shoe store to take a pair of shoes as it to invite a man into a bar-room to take a drink. The change would undoubtedly be for the better.

The dead body of an infant was found in a trunk at the residence of Charles Smith, in Miller township, Perry county. The jury rendered a verdict that the death of the child was caused by want of proper care in the absence of an accoucher or mid-wife—through the ignorance of the mother.

The best April fool joke we have heard of was the going in of two old topers to take a drink. As they held aloft their glasses, says Bill to Joe, "Let's April fool our stomachs by not drinking." "All right," replies Joe, and both turned away without drinking. The bar-tender fainted away.

The Planing Mill.

We are pleased to refer to the Planing Mill of Mr. Thos. Burchinell & Son, which has now been in successful operation for over a year. We said previously that this was just the thing for "this neck o' timber," and our words have been corroborated by the success which the firm has met with. Many improvements have been made since we last referred to it, and new and complete machinery has been added. There is also a drying kiln for drying the lumber, thus enabling the proprietors to work in dry stuff, and supply their customers with well fitting lumber. Of the gentlemen themselves we can say that they are always ready to accommodate, and are determined to render satisfaction in their workmanship and prices. Our young friend Will thinks it no greater pleasure than to show his customers through the mill, and is prompt to fill orders for anything in their line. See advertisement. †

Decorating the Graves of Soldiers.

General John A. Logan, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, has issued a general order recommending the decorating of the graves of our deceased soldiers with flowers. It has been determined not to prescribe any form of ceremony for universal observance, but each Post, or any number of Posts may arrange together such fitting service as circumstances will permit.

As the 30th of May occurs on Sabbath, Posts are at liberty to observe either that day, or Saturday, the 29th.

No doubt the members of Post No. 33 will make arrangements for the proper observance of the day, and we have no doubt they will be assisted in the ceremonies by our citizens generally, by liberal contributions of flowers, boquets, &c.

Heroic Feat.

Engineers of locomotives have eventful lives, as the following incident, which happened near Petersburg, this county, one day last week, will illustrate: An engineer of a freight train while coming towards the above named place, saw a child—a son of Mr. Denny, walking on the track about half a mile ahead. He immediately whistled but the boy did not appear to hear it, and kept walking, the engineer continually whistling, and even reversing his engine. Seeing that the boy would not heed, he got from his seat on to the cow-catcher, and caught the boy in his arms, ere the engine could touch him, and thus saved his life.

We have not learned the name of this noble engineer, but we would be happy to publish it as soon as we do, for he would be held in grateful remembrance.

Y. M. C. A.

The rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association of this borough are now on the second floor of Mr. S S. Smith's new building, on the Main street. They were dedicated on Monday afternoon last, during the service of the daily noon-day prayer meeting which is hereafter to be held therein. The Association has a library and reading rooms which are open every evening, except Sundays. Upwards of three hundred volumes are in the library, and on the tables will be found the leading papers and magazines. The object of the Association is to promote the social, intellectual and moral welfare of young men, and seeks, in every way, to promote the interests of those who come within its reach. All young men, and strangers in the town, are invited to the rooms and privileges.

Misfortunes Come Not Singly.

We are sorry to announce the death of Mrs. George Brunner, which occurred at Chambersburg, on Monday last. She has been suffering from Consumption for some time past, and on Thursday morning last, at her request, Mr. Brunner started to take her to her relatives in Chambersburg, thinking that the change might be beneficial. At Harrisburg he was met by her friends who agreed to take charge of her, and insisted upon his returning home to look after his business. He yielded to their wishes, and returned upon the Fast Line, on the same evening, to find all his property in ruins. Mr. B. has been truly unfortunate, having, previous to coming here, lost all his property in Chambersburg, at the time the Rebel McCausland burned the place.—Altoona Tribune.

Death of Christian Hannawalt, Esq.

As Mr. Hannawalt was returning from Newton Hamilton on Thursday evening, April 22d, 1869, and when in sight of his dwelling, was overtaken by the 5 p m., train west, as it was passing the train east and thrown against a crosstie near the track, his head striking the end of the tie, crushing in his skull, causing instant death.

Mr. H. met with the fatal blow on the farm on which he was born, and where he lived about seventy years—contented, respected, unambitious and usefully employed, in the possession of a productive farm inherited from his father, (one of the earliest settlers of the Juniata Valley.—Mt. Union News.

Robbery.

Some thieves entered the store of Johnston & Wattson, in Smith's new building, in this place, last night, and stole a large quantity of silks and other fine dry goods, trimmings, gloves, &c. They effected an entrance thro' the back window by boring through the shutter with bits that were stolen from the blacksmith shop of Shoemaker & Gahegan, the same night. The proprietors have not made an estimate of the amount stolen, but as the goods were among the best the sum must be considerable. Efforts are being made to apprehend the thieves.

Fire.

The Rolling mill part of the Juniata Iron Works near Alexandria, owned by S & B. R. Hatfield, was destroyed by fire between 11 and 12 o'clock on Sunday night last. How the fire originated is not known. The loss is considerable, but covered by insurance.

Horses Stolen.

On the evening of the 22d instant, two horses were stolen in Hill Valley, one from Seth F. Myers and the other from John Spanogle, both bay farm horses.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

BROAD TOP, April 20, 1869.

Dear Globe:—As the Spring advances we can see the busy housewives and plowmen at work—the women engineering and laying out the plan of their kitchen garden, while the young damsels of beauty are executing the work; and again we see the stalwart plowmen with horses turning under the fertile soil to reap a plentiful harvest. The health of Broad Top as a general thing is very good, but this Spring it has been visited with a sort of sickness called the catarrh fever, and was confined chiefly to children.—Its ravages among the little innocents for a while was fearful and it caused many to bid a last farewell to this world of ours.

Business is also reviving as Spring advances, and business men are looking ahead and laying up heavy stocks for the summer, in expectation of a good run of trade. Some time ago the firm of A. & J. Gleason of Barnetstown, got ten barrels of the celebrated Chicage flour, direct from Chicago; this they got as a sample and it met a ready sale. They now have received fifty barrels more of the same flour, which I believe is one of the largest cargos of flour that was ever shipped to Dudley to one firm at one time, and the first flour that ever came direct from Chicago to Dudley. They are retailing it out at the rate of eight dollars per barrel.

Mining now on this region is very brisk, there being more demand for men to mine the coal than there is demand for work to supply them, and if there should be any who may read this letter and have no employment let them come to Broad Top City and if they want to work in the mines I can assure them steady employment and good wages. As I mentioned some time ago Wm. A. Orbison, Esq., of Huntingdon, has rented the Barrel Place and is now shipping over one hundred tons per day from it.

I will here mention something about a town which promises to be one of note. It is located where Six Mile run empties into the Raystown Branch, five miles distant from Saxton by railroad. Its name is Riddlesburg, in Bedford county, but it may well be termed the Johnstown of Bedford county instead of Riddlesburg. This promises to be an extensive Iron Work. There is now one blast furnace built with all necessary buildings to go to work at once. It is now supposed that the furnace will be put in blast about the month of July or August, and the Company intends, as soon as the furnace that is now built will be in operation, to commence building another one. Besides the blast furnace it is a first class location for a rolling mill and I should not wonder at some future day that the present enterprising company would build thereat, as every facility is at hand to encourage it. At this place as at all new enterprising places, real estate cannot be purchased at any price, the company not being more willing than private individuals to sell town lots. CARBON.

The American Year Book and National Register for 1869, published by O. D. Case & Co., of Hartford, is undoubtedly the most complete and valuable book of astronomical historical, political, financial, commercial, agricultural, educational and religious reference ever published. It is a universal almanac, filled with information never before presented in so compact a form. Among other valuable statistics it includes tables of the principal officers of the Government, from the first Continental Congress to the present time, list of Governors in every State from its admission into the Union down to 1869, accurate Congress and Committee lists, a complete table of Ministers resident and of Consuls, of Assessors and Collectors, Army and Navy lists, the names of all the colleges in the United States, with their character, location, and date of organization, abstract of public laws, statistical sketches of all the States and Territories, nearly one hundred pages of Presidential election figures, giving the vote of every county in the United States from 1836 to 1868, and obituary notices of the distinguished dead of 1868. The compilation of the volume reflects great credit on its editor, Mr. David N. Camp. The work will be sold by subscription, and its proprietors offer the most liberal terms to agents.

George Borkstresser of Mill Creek is the Agent for this county.

HEDQUARTERS POST No. 33, DEPARTMENT OF PENNA. G. A. R., HUNTINGDON, April, 23, 1869.—GENERAL ORDERS, No. 1. The Commander of this Post has received an official copy of General Orders, No. 21, Headquarters, Grand Army of the Republic, Washington, D. C., dated April 12, 1869, designating the 29th or 30th of May as the day for the annual observance of the ceremony of decorating Soldiers' graves.

The Commander-in-Chief has left the selection of either of the above days, and also the manner and details of the services, to the discretion of Posts.

It is therefore necessary to give the subject our early attention. A special meeting of this Post will be held for that purpose, at the usual place, on Monday, the 3d of May, at 8 o'clock, P. M. The Post Commander trusts that all comrades will give their assistance in making the requisite preparations. By order of

☞We were in a certain store last week and were surprised to find how empty its shelves were of goods, and how cheap the old stock was being sold. We thought that the people must have been making a great rush since last fall at that store, and we were not surprised to learn that one of the firm was obliged to be in the city and send home some more goods, of the latest patterns, and plenty of them. We refer to the store of Cunningham & Carmon, on Railroad street, and the latter gentleman is now in the city, and will return this week with a large invoice of goods. Give them a call. †.

Still in the Field.

Agent Africa, the veteran dealer in Ice Cream, Oysters, and other refreshments for the "inner soul" of man, is still prepared at his old stand on Railroad street, to supply the public with the above luxuries. Agent has always had the reputation of making good ice cream, and we would say, let those try it who never tried it before, and those who have tried it, only try it the more. †

FISH--FISH--FISH.

The seventh arrival of Fish at ENTERPRISE HEADQUARTERS this week.—No 1 and 2 Shore Mackerel in half and quarter barrels and kits, Labrador, Quaddy, Lake and Dry Salt Herring, Trout and White Fish—warranted good and sold low.

A case of rowdyism occurred on the Harrisburg Accommodation train above Mapleton, a short time ago. Two drunken men took seats in the ladies' car and became very noisy and used vulgar language. They were politely told to quit, but not doing so they were put off the train, but not until they showed fight, in which one of the ruffians struck Conductor Bell in the forehead with a piece of iron, cutting a fearful gash.

☞The Franklin House in this place has changed proprietors.—Mr. Samuel D. Heffner of Walker township has bought out Mr. Anderson and is now running the house, and no doubt he will give general satisfaction to all who will give him a call.

OBITUARY OF REV. JAS. H. ORBISON.

It is with feelings of the deepest sorrow that we have to record the sudden death of Rev. JAMES H. ORBISON, which occurred at Bellefonte, Pa., on the 19th inst., after an illness of less than forty-eight hours. Mr. Orbison was born in Huntingdon, Pa., March the 23d, 1826. He was a graduate of Jefferson College, Pa.; studied Theology at Princeton Seminary, New Jersey—was ordained to the work of the Gospel Ministry by the Presbytery of Huntingdon, June, 1850, and in August following he sailed for India as a Missionary, under the care of the Board of Missions of the Presbyterian Church. He was twice married—his first wife was Miss Agnes Campbell Kay, a native of Scotland whom he married in India, and who died only a few months after their union. In the year 1858 he returned to this country, and was married a second time, to Miss Nannie Harris of Bellefonte, Pa., and with her, returned immediately to his field of labor in India. More than ten years after this, he returned with his wife and four children, hoping to resume his labors among the heathen after recruiting his health, and providing for the education of his children, arriving at Huntingdon the 25th of March, and on the 19th of April he entered into rest. From these dates it will be seen that Mr. Orbison spent nearly twenty years of his life in the self-denying work of preaching the Gospel to the heathen; and that he was taken from his labors to his gracious reward four weeks after his return to America. During these four weeks, he was permitted to visit the home of his boyhood, and to greet many—but not all—of his dear kindred and friends. On the second Sabbath after his return he preached in the Presbyterian Church of this place, giving a brief, but very interesting account of the nature and extent of his work among the heathen. On the following Wednesday he was permitted to meet with the Presbytery that ordained him, and to preach before it, bringing as he felicitously expressed it "The greeting of the Church of Asia to the Churches of America." His funeral was attended by a large number of sincere mourners. The services were conducted by Dr. Hammil and the Rev. G. W. Zahniser. A number of Episcopal clergymen who were attending a "Convocation" at Bellefonte, were also present. The death of this beloved man will be deeply lamented by all who knew him, and by none more deeply than the native members of his Church in India, whom he was instrumental in bringing to a knowledge of the truth. Mr. Orbison was a christian gentleman of the highest type, was humble, modest, earnest and yet fearless in defence of the truth—he was a ripe scholar and eminently qualified for the work in which he was engaged. But he was cut down in the prime of life and in the midst of usefulness. His work was done, and his Master whom he loved and served, brought him back to his native land to die among his kindred, and to leave his family in the care of christian friends, surrounded with christian sympathy. In behalf of this community we extend the sincerest sympathy to his family and friends in their crushing sorrow.

☞The rapidity with which Plantation Bitters have become a household necessity throughout the civilized nations, is without a parallel in the history of the world. Over five million bottles were sold in twelve months, and the demand is daily increasing. Rich and poor, young and old, ladies, physicians and clergymen, find that it revives drooping spirits, lends strength to the system, vigor to the mind, and is exhausted nature's great restorer. It is compounded of the choicest roots and herbs, the celebrated Calisaya or Peruvian Bark, etc., all preserved in pure St. Croix Rum. It is sold by all respectable dealers in every town, parish, village and hamlet through North and South America, Europe, and all the Islands of the Ocean.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

BEAR IN MIND,

That MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS is skillfully compounded, free from injurious component parts, agreeable to the taste and destructive to disease. If you detect any change from the natural functions of your system, no matter how trivial, or where located, or if disease has already entrenched itself, the really true and reliable remedy in either case is Mishler's Herb Bitters. This assertion is based upon what we know it will do in relieving, curing and warding off disease. For want of space we cannot detail the diversified uses of this Bitters, but its general effects upon the human system are to purify the blood and secretions; correct morbid changes in the blood, equalize its circulation, enrich its constituents and regenate its supply; it imparts vitality and elasticity to every organ; overcomes all functional derangements; assists in the process of digestion; creates a healthy appetite; prevents and cures miasmatic and intermittent fevers, dyspepsia, liver complaint, nervous headache, kidney affections, and revives the physical energies by infusing new life and power into the system. ap14om

HURRYGRAPHS.

An Iowa paper, intending to tell us that a prisoner escaped, says: "The constable and prisoner disagreed as to which was the best route, and, as the prisoner has not been heard from since, it is supposed that he took the wrong road."

The dead body of a man was found in a pond near Cincinnati, naked and sewed up in a sack, which contained stones to make it sink. The body had cuts of a knife in the forehead, and was laid open from the chin to the abdomen.

The number of suicides recorded in the Kingdom of Saxony during 1868 was 210—158 men and 52 women Thirty-nine of them were in the City of Dresden. The entire population is only 610,000 souls; the suicides accordingly average one in 3,000.

The valedictory of the late editor of the Vermont Record and Farmer is a model of terseness and propriety: "As announced in another column, I am done with this paper. I am not sorry, and I suppose the majority of the people are not. All being pleased, there is no need of further remark."

Worth, the famous man-milliner, or, as he prefers to be called, the dress critic of Paris, holds in his portfolio, it is said, the I O U of nearly every distinguished lady in Paris; a sudden liquidation of his affairs would carry dismay into most of the aristocratic families of that capital.

An Indiana man went to Chicago during the early part of last Winter, and packed 20,000 tons of ice. During the warm weather he sold it to speculators for $17,000 more than it cost him, and went home. Since then another fine crop has ripened, and the price has gone down more than one-half.

A few Sundays since a clergyman in Maine in the middle of his sermon, had occasion to use his handkerchief, and to his astonishment scattered in all directions some fifty specimens of paper dolls, which his little daughter had lodged in the paternal pocket for safe keeping. The effect upon the audience was marked.

When the "pledge" was being circulated at a Temperance meeting, a decidedly inebriated individual presented himself and offered his signature. The Chairman remarked, "This is a very important step, my friend, and I trust you realize the responsibility you are assuming." "Oh, I can stand the (hic) sponsibility," was the response; "I've done it lots of times before."

A dying pickpocket confessed to a Catholic priest, a few days ago, the theft of a pocketbook from a lady in a Washington horse-car, committed in 1865. The lady was at the time a guest of Secretary McCulloch, and a note in the wallet gave the thief the address. He insisted upon making restitution of the money, $75, and the sum was sent by the priest from a remote spot in the West to Mr. McCulloch, and forwarded by him to the owner in Chicago

How he Whipped him.—A lad narrating a street fight in which he had been engaged, said: "I'll tell you how it was. You see, Bill and me went down to the wharf to fish; and I felt in my pocket and found my knife, and it was gone; and I said, Bill, you stole my knife; and he said I was another; and I said go there yourself; and he said it was no such thing; and I said he was a liar, and I could whip him if I was bigger'n him; and he said he'd rock me to sleep, mother; and I said he was a bigger one; and he said I never had the measles; and I said for him to fork over that knife, or I'd fix him for a tombstone at Laurel Hill; and he said my grandmother was no gentleman; and I said he darsent take it up; but he did, you bet; you never—well, you never did; then I got up again, and said he was too much afraid to do it again; and he tried to, but he could not; and I grabbed him and throwed him down on the top of me like several bricks; and I tell you it beat all—and so did he; and my little dog got behind Bill and bit him; and Bill kicked at the dog, and the dog put, and I ran after the dog to fetch him back; and I didn't catch him till I got clear home; and I'll whip him more yet. Is my eye very black?

A Fair Turn.—"I understand, Mr. Jones, that you can turn anything neater than any other man in town." "Yes, Mr. Smith, I think so." "Ahem! Mr. Jones I don't like to brag, but there is nobody on earth can turn a thing as well as I can whittle."

"Pooh! nonsense, Mr. Smith! Talk about whittling—what can you whittle as nice as I can turn?" "Anything—everything Mr. Jones. You just name the article that I can't whittle that you can turn, and I will give this dollar if I do not do it to the satisfaction of these gentlemen present." (Here Mr. Smith tables the dollar). "Ahem! well, then, Mr. Smith, suppose we take two grindstones, just for a trial, you know—you whittle the one while I turn the other." A fair "sell." Mr. Smith stared a moment, and vamoosed. The forfeited dollar was quickly disposed of by those present, with great glee and satisfaction."

☞ How women do admire weddings—not their own, merely, but any body's! How they throng the churches, "just to see the ceremony!" Then what animated descriptions! What glowing accounts of what the bride "had on?" What criticisms on brides maids? In short, what an immense amount of simper, and giggle and prattle—all because two inoffensive people are going in a legal and orderly way, to set up housekeeping!

☞ An honest dame in the town of —— standing beside the corpse of her deceased husband, bewailing in piteous tones his untimely departure, observed: "It's a pity he's dead, for his teeth are as good as they ever was."

☞ They have a hospital in Morelia, Mexico, in which it is said, on the arrival of a patient, by the manager, "What death do you prefer? That by starvation, the knife, or by chloroform." Why not morphin?

☞ A little girl dreamed that Death knocked at her door. "What did you do?" asked her mother. "I said no permittance," the little four year old replied.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known to almost every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious mineral, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and renders them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

McGUIRE'S

SPANISH HAIR DRESSER

For Promoting the Growth, Beautifying the Hair,

And rendering it dark and glossy. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. The use of this oil as a hair dresser has been universal in every section of the country in the Spanish Main for centuries.—No preparation of art could give that elegant luxuriance and abundance of hair which have so often been the admiration of travelers in Spain. This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivaled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set its seal of enduring approval.

McGUIRE'S

Mexican Wild Flowers Shampoo Lotion

For removing dandruff and scurf from the head, whitening and perfuming the skin. This article is entirely different from anything of the kind ever offered in this country and is warranted free from all poisonous substances. This valuable lotion was used by the Emperor Maximilian, and Empress Carlotta of Mexico, and universally used by Mexicans for three hundred years. As a wash for the head—it is cooling, cleansing and refreshing.—When thus used it at once relieves headache.

McGUIRE'S

WILD FLOWERS FOR THE TEETH.

All those who are in favor of white teeth and a pleasant and perfumed breath should at once use McGuire's Wild Flowers for the Teeth.
